The Opening of The College Year.

WELLESLEY College entered upon its twenty-seventh academic year on Tuesday, September the twenty-fourth, with the largest number of students in its history. Although as yet no official statement has been given out as to actual figures, it is known that there are over 800 students enrolled.

During the summer holiday many improvements in our old buildings have been made and several new buildings have been erected. The new boat-house is completed and ready for use, and we trust will have a longer and happier life than did the former one.

The Agora House, on the path to Tupelo, is Grecian in its style of architecture. Its interior arrangement is similar to the Phi Sigma and Zeta Alpha houses. One enters a charming Reception Hall, on the left of which is the cosy den, on the right the library. The large Assembly Hall is across the whole back of the building. The dressing room and kitchen are in the basement.

The library in the Shakespeare House has been completed. Simpson has had the long felt want of electric lighting supplied. The granite walk from Stone Hall extending beyond Music Hall presents itself as a most commendable improvement. Music Hall itself has been attractively decorated, and the organ loft more adequately furnished.

In College Hall, a room on the first floor has been tastefully decorated and furnished by the class of 1902, to be used as a Senior Parlor. A new lecture room has been added on the third floor over Lecture Room III. The College Hall Dining Room now boasts of many paintings.

A very accurate Sidereal clock has been placed in the Astronomical Observatory.

Student Government at Wellesley.

THE ambitious dream of Wellesley students half a decade ago, the tentative experiments of cottagers for the last few years, the beginnings of last June, have found at last an actual realization, and the great student body of Wellesley College is today self-governing.

The venture became more than that name implies during the last college term when mass meetings, hard committee work, conferences, and clerical toil succeeded in obtaining for the students their constitution and by-laws. The head of the Association, Miss Hughes '02, was elected and all was ready for practical work this fall. Already this fall a mass meeting has been held to acquaint the new students with the laws of the Association of which they became members when they joined the student body. A member of the Association has been appointed in charge of village residents, and the various College Houses have each elected a Head. These Heads of Houses serve with two officers of the Association as an Executive Board and are assisted in their voluntary labors by Presidents of Floors, who in their turn are aided by Proctors.

So the executive branch of the government is seen to be simply constructed and effectively centralized. The legislative branch is the student body assembled, while the Association finds its judicial seat in the breast of every girl in Wellesley.

The Academic Council will doubtless provide the sine qua non of an efficient constitutional check on radicalism.

Every Wellesley student past or present, must rejoice in this evidence of real progress at her Alma Mater; must realize the growth in character and conceptions of the students, the faculty and the trustees who have made this Association a reality. The College News is glad to acknowledge in its first issue the beginning of a new and potent factor for the strength and power of Wellesley College.

Wellesley Tea Room Corporation.

UNTIL four years ago there was no place in Wellesley village where the Faculty and Undergraduates of Wellesley College could meet for relaxation and social intercourse. The Wellesley Tea Room has for four years filled this place under private ownership. The College girls became so interested in the success and development of The Tea Room that during the past summer a plan of incorporation was suggested by its owner, Miss Chase, and set in motion by Miss Claire Conklin, 1902, Miss Elizabeth Newkirk, 1900, Miss Alice Dana Knox, 1900, and Miss Caroline Wright Rogers, 1900.

The shares, which were offered to undergraduates, alumnae, faculty and trustees, are now all gone, and the suggestion has taken so well that there is talk of building a club house before another year.

The object of the incorporation is to provide an attractive club for the use of the undergraduates, alumnae, faculty, trustees and their friends, wholly within the control of the faculty and student body.

There is a graduate student who plays the part of "Hostess" and who edits the sheet of College News. The Kitchen and Tea Room itself are under the management of a competent housekeeper.

THE College News makes its obeisance to the Wellesley world, a very respectful courtesy to the officers of government and instruction, a fitting salutation to the grave and reverend seniors and a hearty comrade's greeting to the rest. We hope you will find us a true and constant friend, a chatterer, perforce; but with periods of silence. We hope never to thoughtlessly nor maliciously gossip, but to bring to you always the most vital and interesting tid-bits of college news for the week.

It is a cry with which we are all familiar when the older alumna meets the more recent alumna in the corridors. After the greeting comes, "What's the news?" In the streets of distant cities Wellesley girls meet and the refrain is the same, "Do you know any college news?" And so The Tea Room Stock Company of Wellesley students undertakes to answer these questions as regularly and exhaustively as the limitations of space permit. We feel that in a College as large as Wellesley, there are countless personal, class, social and academic happenings that many students and alumnae not involved may still find of interest. Unlike the Wellesley Magazine, whose kindly criticisms we invite, we have no literary aspirations. Lack of space forbids our opening our sheet for a Free Press, although we will gladly hear and heed any opinions of the News readers.

A Spanish club has been organized. Professor Scudder, Miss Merrill, Miss Waite, Miss Fisher, Professor Calkins and Miss Rumsey are absent from college for the year.

Miss Schofield and Miss Katherine Bates have returned to their departments.

COLLEGE NOTES.

A marked interest has been shown in the last few years in the Art department. The classes, especially the Studio ones, are the largest in the history of the College.

An exhibition of photographs, illustrating Spanish architecture in Mexico, is now being held in the Art Building. The collection is loaned by Mr. Sylvester Baxter.

The percentage of students electing modern languages this year shows a decided increase. Fifty per cent. of the students have chosen modern languages, while only twenty per cent. have chosen Latin and Greek. These statistics show that less stress is being laid upon the classics than hitherto.

ATHLETICS.

MISS HILL is devoting every energy to the organization of the different sports, and to the placing of the entering class according to their athletic interests. The Athletic Association has not yet decided on its course of action, and last year's officers still preside. The Heads of the different sports are:

Head of Rowing, Katharine Hotz,
 Head of Golf, Anne Snyder,
 Head of Tennis, Anna Vail,
 Head of Basket-ball, Grace Dean.

November 11th has been chosen for Field Day, with golf, basket-ball, tennis and running dash among the leading events.

Golf can hardly fail to be popular this year with the attractive, well-kept links near Dover St. The Club is composed of residents of Wellesley as well as of students and faculty.

Basket-ball is already a popular sport and will undoubtedly be so this year. The seniors have again among their number Julia Wells, one of their strong players in the match games of a year ago, and Claire Conklin as captain.

Miss Constance Applebee of England was out Saturday, to give a trial game in English field hockey. It is hoped that this game will be among the interesting events of Field Day. Miss Applebee will return to Wellesley from Vassar and Smith, and Miss Hill hopes to have the sport organized on a firm footing by spring.

A large swimming class will soon begin work at Brookline.

Mr. Arthur Vignoles of the new Park Riding School, Back Bay, has been engaged by Miss Hill as riding master.

Hockey and Baseball are the two distinctively new sports. Lacrosse also bids fair to be popular.

Two tennis courts have been reserved for the use of 1905 and although it is too early to judge from actual work done, the interest displayed by the class makes it evident that they will do good work in that line as well as in the other departments and may be counted upon as a strong factor on Field Day.

Gymnasium work, hitherto compulsory for Freshmen only, is now demanded from Sophomores.

The College was entertained on Saturday, September 28th, by expert swimmers from the Brookline Swimming Club. Illustrations of different strokes were given. Specimens of diving and a game of water polo were most interesting.

Fencing, dancing, boxing, etc., will be taken up by Miss Hill in inclement winter weather but the tendency at present is to put all stress on those sports which will take the student out of doors and relax the mind from academic work.
